Take your job... and love it

For most of America the long-awaited time has arrived...the time for Vacations! Get away, leave the rat race to the other "rats," forget about your work and sometimes overwhelming obligations and responsibilities, the day-to-day grind of your job. But after vacation, you must return... return to the same old, same old job? Have you ever thought how you could make it better? How you can renew your sense of commitment and fulfillment of a job well-done? Here are a couple of tips or strategies I would like to share with you.

First of all, does the physical space you work in motivate and energize you? So often, we don't even realize that small changes in our environment can boost our enjoyment and productivity. Work often requires us to use our logical, factual "left brain." Although this helps us get the job done, we can better deal with the challenges that call for innovative solutions by stimulating our creative, colorful "right brain" side. Even housewives can appreciate how their environment affects them. Try moving and re-arranging the furniture, "jazz" up that tired old look with items stuck back in a storage closet, clean out those drawers you haven't touched for years... you'd be surprised what you'll find. Put a vase of fresh flowers on your desk or work area and stop during the day to admire them, and breathe in their fresh scent, touch their petals, etc. Full spectrum sunlight stimulates our hormones, our thinking, our bodies. Working near a window or outdoors can make us more productive.

Secondly, find a project that connects to your genius, your power, and your magic. You may think you have only occasional flashes of genius, not enough power, and certainly very little magic, but by spending some time thinking about what you love to do, you can begin to tap into that magic. Bring to mind experiences at work, leisure, or volunteer activities. Can you remember when you lost track of time, felt energized, and were fully involved? Are you at your best with people, with things, or with ideas and information? All of us have talents that enable us to be who we are. Look for a project at work, even a small one, that lets you use your best and most loved skills.

Creating a powerful vision and affirm what you want to become... in other words... see yourself succeeding! What challenges are you facing? Do you want to feel stronger and more in control? Visualize what you want to be and stay focused.

Use positive self-talk. Do you realize that nearly 80 percent of what we tell ourselves is negative? Such things as having a "bad-hair day," being worried, being stressed out, dreading going to work, etc. are all examples of negativity. When you get up, do you say, "It's going to be a great day!" or do you say, "Yuck. I can't face another day at work. How long till the weekend?" Listen to your inner thoughts for a few days to see which negative statements tend to play over and over in your mind. Tell yourself "I know how to do this job. I'm capable and competent. I can make good decisions even when things are hectic."

Finally... it's very important to take care of you. You need to take time to relax, exercise, be with people who replenish your emotional reserves. Stay away from negative, whiny, complainers and focus on the things that make you feel good about who you are and what you do. Occasionally do something spontaneous and fun. People who really love their jobs have a light in their eyes, color in their cheeks, a spring in their step, and refuse to let a stressful situation obstruct their outlook. Even if you can't choose all the circumstances of your job, you can choose how you feel about them and react to them. Have the courage to find your sense of purpose and joy in life. Then you can truly take your job... and love it! The choice is yours to make.

Till next time, stay informed and stay healthy.

Lions Club President Edwin Lively (right) hands the gavel to incoming president Lester Baird (left). Mr. Baird says he is looking forward to a good year of meeting together and also planning projects to help people in need. He also wants to reach out to those people in our community who would like to be a member of a service club called the Belle Glade Lions Club.

New jet to help forecasters predict hurricane direction and strength

By Mike Lyons

"I fly an airplane into a hurricane? They do this on purpose? Are these people nuts?" Those are some of the questions I receive at hurricane seminars when I describe the "hurricane hunters." The "hurricane hunters" is the name given to the researchers who fly into the eye of a hurricane.

Even though the National Weather Service has been flying aircraft into tropical systems since the late 1950's, some people are still very surprised to learn about this practice. I guess is does sound a bit crazy. After all, most people try to get away from hurricanes not fly directly into it.

Yet the "hurricane hunters" know exactly what they're doing. The pilots are experienced and their plans are well built. There have been thousands of missions since the 1950's yet we've only lost one plane. The crew, thankfully, was recovered safely.

Of course, flying through a hurricane is no picnic. It can be very rough. But, if you are a hurricane researcher what better place to learn about a hurricane than from inside one of these giant storms. Dr. Robert Sheets, the former director of the National Hurricane Center, is a veteran of over 200 hurricane missions. So is Dr. Robert Burpee, the center's new director.

In addition to a flying laboratory, the "hurricane hunters" relay information about the storm to the National Hurricane Center. The hurricane's exact position, highest winds and lowest pressure are just some of the information the researchers pass on to the forecasters.

Next year, a new airplane will join the "hurricane hunters." A plane that researchers believe will mark the next big advancement in hurricane forecasting.

It's a new high altitude jet. This jet will be able to obtain information about a tropical system that has been unavailable able up until now.

"The plan is for this plane to fly around the environment of a hurricane," said Miles Lawrence, a specialist at the National Hurricane Center. "We'll actually be sampling the atmosphere for several hundred miles around the hurricane over the ocean where previously we didn't have any data."

Mr. Lawrence says the new aircraft will be able to tell forecasters what kind of weather the hurricane is about to encounter. That's crucial information and it will lead, Mr. Lawrence says, to better forecasts.

"If we know what kind of environment the storm is headed into we can figure out if the hurricane will get stronger or weaker and hat direction it might be going," Mr. Lawrence said. "The 'hurricane hunters' tell us what the storm is doing now but the high altitude jet will tell us what the hurricane will do in the future."

Mr. Lawrence says the folks at the hurricane center have always been very good at observing a tropical system. "We can tell you exactly where it is, how high the winds are and which direction it's going," he said. "We haven't done as well predicting where it will go next."

Mr. Lawrence is convinced that this new jet will solve that problem.

Mike Lyons is the weatherman for WPBF, Channel 25.

Belle Glade Police Department had a busy week.....

On June 22, Patrolman Jason Redd was standing outside the Police Department when he observed a vehicle traveling west and heard what appeared to be gun shots coming from this vehicle. Ptlm. Jeffers Walker was able to stop this vehicle in the 1300 Block of N.W. 12th Street. Further investigation found black make Wilbert Fields hid a .38 caliber special handgun under the right front passenger seat that he was sitting in. Fields admitted to Detective Ward to concealing the firearm. He could not advise who shot the handgun from the bed of the truck. He was arrested for carrying a concealed firearm and has been turned over to the Palm Beach County Jail under a $3,000.00 bond.

On June 22, police responded to the Bank of Belle Glade, 108 S.E. Avenue D, in reference to a person that was recognized by an employee at the bank to have been cashing bad checks. Police brought Treva Shellman to the police station for investigative questioning. Shellman confessed to police that she stole two blank checks out of her grandmothers mail and forged her grandmothers name and deposited these checks a few days later. A short while after that Shellman withdrew money and spent it. Also Shellman tried depositing a check from First Union Bank, in which the account was closed. At this time Shellman was placed under arrest for forgery, petit theft, forgery grand theft, and issuing a worthless check. She was turned over to the Palm Beach County Jail where she is being held on a $1,000.00 bond.

On June 23, at approximately 1300 hours employees of Wedgworth Fertilizer observed three subjects walking out of the Wedgworth Fertilizer's rear warehouse. Employees attempted to stop the subjects but they fled on foot. C.O.P.S. unit officer Sweet heard the dispatched call via police radio and caught the fleeing subjects on the 1100 block of N.W. Avenue L, Belle Glade. The subjects were positively identified by employees of Wedgworth as the subjects that ran out of the building. One subject was identified as Reggie Henderson, 18 years of age, and he was accompanied by two 16 year old subjects. Subjects were arrested and transported to the police station. Henderson was turned over to the Palm Beach County Jail where he is being held without bond.

On June 24, Patrolman James Dingle was at Duke's Lounge when a concerned citizen approached him and stated that there is a hispanic male wearing a mustard shirt, blue jeans, and tennis shoes and is selling what he believes to be cocaine. Ptlm. Dingle observed an individual and asked him if he had any drugs on him and if he would remove his hands from his pockets for officer safety purposes. Ptlm. Dingle stated the individual later identified as Jose R. Rojas removed his hands from his pockets and two plastic transparent bags with a white powder substance fell from his left pocket. Ptlm. Dingle at this time field tested the suspected cocaine with a Cobat Thiocyanate Reagent kit which showed the substance to be positive for cocaine. The cocaine was weighed at approximately 2.5 grams. Rojas was arrested for possession of cocaine and released to the Palm Beach County Jail under a $5,000.00 bond.

On June 25, at approximately 7:30, Jesus Santiago and Judith McBride were involved in a domestic dispute with each other. The altercation escalated when McBride held a broom stick in defense from Santiago. Santiago grabbed the stick away from McBride and he struck her with it at least two times. McBride suffered a large bruise on her upper thigh as a result of this. Santiago was arrested and subsequently turned over to the Palm Beach County Jail where he is being held without bond.

On June 26, a concerned citizen called in a suspicious vehicle parked at Larry's Package that was occupied by two black males. The citizen also stated one of the occupants exited the vehicle and was walking around Sasser's Seafood in a suspicious manner. Sergeant Stambaugh was first on scene and observed a black male Ronnie McGee, behind Sasser's. On the ground beside him was a flat-head screwdriver. The driver of the vehicle, Willie Williams was patted down for officers safety by Ptlm. John Ownes who recovered a crack pipe and burglary tools on his person.

McGee and Williams were arrested for loitering and prowling, possession of burglary tools, and possession of narcotic paraphernalia. McGee and Williams were turned over to the Palm Beach County Jail where they are being held without bond.

On June 26, Partolman James Reid was flagged down in the 500 block of S.W. Avenue B, by Mary Smith who said she was just shot in the leg by "Pretty". At this time a concerned citizen who observed the incident advised Ptlm. Reid and pointed to a person wearing a red shirt, blue jeans, and black ball cap was the person who shot Smith. Ptlm. Kevin Folmar stated he observed an individual who fit the description the concerned citizen gave was in the alleyway between S.W. Avenue B and S.W. Avenue B Place. He also said this person was carrying a handgun in his right hand. Ptlm. Reid and Folmar was able to apprehend this individual and recover the handgun. The individual was brought back to the scene where he was positively identified as being the shooter. The suspect was later identified as Edward Webb. Further investigation found Webb has a past history as a convicted felon. He was arrested for aggravated battery and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon. He was released to Palm Beach County Jail and held without bond.

Car Insurance rates a rip-off

I'm calling about car insurance. It has gotten me to the place where I don't know what to think about insurance companies anymore and they assure me that they have the right to do it. I'm not a perfect man, I have one speeding ticket in the last five years, and it's on my record but in the last five years four different times, someone hit the side of my car and put my wife in the hospital, the other people that hit me got the ticket, another time somebody hit my car while we were at the Holiday Inn and they have a claim hit and run, another time someone stole my car and totaled it, no fault of mine and the last one was here in Belle Glade about in January someone ran into the back of me while I was stopped at a red light, had a claim on my car, the other peoples fault. Four times in five years someone else hits my car caused my insurance to pay out because the other people doesn't have no insurance or something. The other people got tickets three times, the other time a hit and run so we don't know who did it. But yet now then they have the right to cancel my insurance or triple my rate. They are not canceling me but I can stay with them if I wish to pay three times the cost for my insurance. I went to other insurance companies and they won't insure me for the same reason.

I think that this is ridiculous, and I wonder if there is anything anyone can do or if there is anyone that can tell me who to talk to that can do something to help me.

Thank You.

Fireworks cause eye injury every year use caution warns Dr. Lealis L. Hale

Every year during the first week of July in the United States more than 10,000 persons are injured by fireworks, some seriously. Unfortunately, Florida is no exception when severe injuries occur every single July 4th holiday period.

Nearly all fireworks were dangerous including even the innocent looking sparkler which can heat to 1800 degrees.

But, statistics tragically prove, it's the vicious bottle rocket which is the major threat. It is highly dangerous and has caused some serious injuries sustained by innocent people sometimes yards away from the ignition.

Saddest of all--as the Florida Society of Ophthalmology and its president, Lealis L. Hale, M.D., of Fort Walton Beach, document--many of the injuries (one out of five) are to the eyes. The accidents sometimes destroy precious eyesight. They have that constant potential as long as someone lights them.

"The message is clear," Dr. Hale warns. "Accidents with fireworks are entirely too common and the sudden results often devastating."

Improper handling is the major cause. Florida's ophthalmologists urge that children not be allowed to ignite fireworks, certainly not without close adult supervision. Youngsters under the age of 16 account for about half of injuries reported.

Your medical eye doctors recommend that citizens attend only presumed safe, community-sponsored fireworks displays.

Even then, danger lurks to spectators as well as participants.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

House Bill 1687 providing for freely dumping foreign sugar into the U.S. market can only be described as having a catastrophic economic disruption to U.S. sugar producers, their workers and hundreds of thousands of Americans in more than 42 states dependent on the industry.

In our South Florida area alone we could anticipate the forced dislocation of thousands of people. Land and real estate prices would go into free fall and many businesses would be forced to close. Government aid for thousands would be another inevitable result.

All this, not because domestic sugar production is inefficient, but because we would be competing with:

- Direct subsidies the foreign producer enjoys.
- Servitude level wages and living conditions in many countries.
- Zero environmental requirements in many countries.

Domestic producers could never compete on such an uneven playing field. Free competition under these conditions is a myth.

For this devastation to be visited on the U.S. sugar producer for a commodity that is such a small component of the average American budget is unconscionable. Refined sugar in Paris sells for $1.23, in Japan $1.04 and $3.9 a pound in Washington D.C. We could deliver sugar to Paris for half the price but it is illegal for us to sell sugar in Europe. It is the industrial food processor who complains about the price of sugar, NOT the consumer.

I believe there would be ZERO price changes in products delivered ered by sweetener consuming companies if we become a dumping ground for world sugar. In 1973 the American consumer saw the price of Coca Cola skyrocket when there was no sugar bill and the sugar market went out of control high and immediately down again. The price of the soft drink was never reduced. Anyone who thinks candy and soft drink prices will fall because of a 1/2 cent change in sugar content is truly naive.

H.R. 1687 would make us totally dependent on the availability and safety of foreign sugar, increase our trade deficit, bankrupt the American sugar farmer and drag the American sugar worker down to the economic level of a third world country (While, incidentally, not reducing the American taxpayer's burden by one cent).

If there was ever a time to be in touch with your congressional people, that time is now!

Respectfully,
Tony Trulls

Dear Editor,

Yesterday's U.S. Senate vote to stop the confirmation of Dr. Henry Foster as Surgeon General is a victory for families and for decency. I would like to thank Senator Connie Mack of Fort Myers for standing up for conservative values in the face of much opposition, and for truly representing the majority view of the American public through his vote.

It is clear that the citizens of this country doubt the credibility of Foster. It is no wonder, after he changed his testimony to Congress repeatedly about the number of abortions he had performed. Foster has also been accused of involvement in controversial medical experiments--such as the sterilization of mentally-handicapped persons and the Tuskegee syphilis study. While in Tennessee, Foster outlined a strategy for attacking parental involvement in abortion surgery decisions. And his activism includes ignoring parents' wishes when it comes to distribution of contraceptives. He has also been connected with SIECUS, an independent organization that supports teaching school children, ages 5-8, about masturbation and promoting homosexuality as an alternative lifestyle. It has been revealed that after being nominated, the White House released literature about his "I Have A Future" program, claiming that it promoted abstinence, when in fact, abstinence was never mentioned in their literature. During Foster's hearings, the effectiveness of the IHAFF was questioned because the teenagers in the program were more likely to have sex than those not in the program. So, why, in light of all this, is President Clinton preparing to name Foster as the head of a special national effort on teen pregnancy--a position that won't need Senate confirmation? Doesn't he know that would be akin to a shot in his own foot?

Please, Mr. President, realize that you have been defeated in this and bow out gracefully. Keep in mind that we care too much about our families and about character to allow indecent and untrustworthy persons to sit in our highest offices and be appointed to our highest post. We proved that last November, and for our families sake, we can prove it again.

Sincerely,
Joyce E. Ernst

The Teacher.....By Bill Phillips

This is the story of a fifth grade teacher, Friendly, loving, kind, and sometimes a preacher.

The smile from her heart would simply abound. Each time one of her students showed knowledge they found.

She never held back, the children were her love,

Exploring in her teachers closet, were books from.

Each child was important to her you see, Giving each one a chance to show their ability.

The little blond boy who was so good in math, Completed tenth grade levels while under her staff.

She always wanted every child to feel special too, And waited patiently until each one would shine through.

Some did well in history, English, and spelling as well, Don't hold the child back, tutor them after the bell.

The school day rarely ended for that special teacher,

As she began to help the worst child, to reach her.

A radiant glow always encompassed her special face,

Only God knows how she was able to keep up the pace.

A few years passed and the truth finally came out, The teacher grew ill and began to fight her final bout.

She fought her last battle with cancer, we were told, Still quite young she would never grow old.

While driving by a school can't see, I choke up inside when I read Gove Elementary.

I hope and pray that the students inside, Are given the learning we were to abide.

Although she was small, she did something so good, A wonderful school in our neighborhood.

Bill Phillips of Belle Glade was recently inducted into the National Library of Poetry, one of the largest organizations of poets and authors in the world. The National Library of Poetry is located in Owings Mills, Maryland, near Washington D.C. Phillips said, "It's a great honor to be inducted rather than having to buy your way in. The membership fees are pretty hefty for me and this was really a big thrill."

His poem "A Country in Pain" was awarded the Editor's Choice Award for 1995 and is being published in the Best Poems of 1995.

Mr. Phillips is presently employed by the Rite Aid corporation in Clewiston.

The Women Involved In Farm Economics, "Ladies in RED" - March on Capitol Hill for Consumers and Family Farmers concerning the 1995 Farm Bill for America.....

Women Involved In Farm Economics (WIFE) members from across the nation recently attended the 13th Annual WIFE Legislative Seminar held in D.C. The main agenda - to meet with Congressional members to present their proposals/policies and positions/concerns regarding the 1995 Farm Bill.

Mary Ann Sheppard, National WIFE President in opening remarks stated, "WIFE represents all major commodities and many topics related to Agricultural. We understand what affects our farms and ranches and also being a consumer, we understand what affects consumers. Letters and telephone calls make a difference now, the same as it did when WIFE began in 1976. We have built credibility. The 1995 Farm Bill will affect not only family farmers but all Americans." Each member was thanked for their hard work and encouraged to communicate, educate and move forward within their state associations and with policy makers, the media and the public and on their visits on the hill.

A planned USDA tour, became a special visit with Secretary of Agriculture, Dan Glickman, who met with WIFE members and conveyed his appreciation for their work regarding agriculture. Sec. Glickman said that one of the first things he did was to remove the Consolidated wording from Farm Service Agency, so no the formerly known ASCS, and later CFSA, will be known as Farm Service Agency (FSA). During the meeting, Sec. Glickman stressed the need for a safety net for family size farmers due to a market driven era, the importance of exports by participation in the vast markets and increasing value added to products and to improve and continue conservation programs, through a variety of new proposals to provide incentives for participation.

USDA briefings with Paul Drazek, special assistant to Secretary of Agriculture, on International Trade and Dallas Smith, Deputy Under Sec. Farm and Foreign Agricultural Services in the office of the Sec. of Agriculture, were also held.

After the meetings, Sec. Glickman introduced WIFE members, Jennifer Felizen, vice president and Shelia Massey, second vice president, to First Lady Hillary Clinton as they attended the results of the "Team Nutrition" program held in the USDA building.

The Annual Legislative Breakfast, hosted by WIFE was held in the Rayburn Building. Keynote Speaker, Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, Pat Roberts paid special tribute to Sen. Heflin of Alabama and Ranking Minority Leader, Kika de la Graza of Texas, for their hard work and support.

There is an awful lot at stake regarding this new farm bill and we do not have a reasonable debate until we set the record straight, and this is where WIFE comes in," stated Roberts. Roberts message was to "accentuate the positives, eliminate the negatives and Don't Mess With Mister In Between." Kika de la Graza, who shared the podium with Roberts, also urged WIFE members, to keep their good work for agriculture.

Guest Speakers throughout the seminar were, Brenda Marchessault, AG Council, award presentation; Bonnie Tanner, Chief of Domestic Programs for the Domestic and Procurement Div. of the FSA; Ron Phillips, vice pres., Public Affairs at the Fertilizer Institute in Washington; Luther Markwart, executive v.p., for the American Sugarbeet Growers Assn., and Sonja Hillgren, Washington Editor for Farm Journal.

E. Bruce Harrison Co., PR firm in D.C., coordinator, Melanie Miller, are planning a program featuring farm women titled, "The Working Woman." WIFE has been asked to participate in the program.

A familiar, "The Ladies in Red" could be heard as Congressional visits were made up and down the halls of Congress by WIFE members, as they took packets of farm policies/issues and their voices, to address the serious concerns of farmers, not only for themselves, but for all Americans regarding the 1995 Farm Bill or more appropriately titled, the "Consumers Response Act" by WIFE members, which Naomi King, Kansas WIFE State president, proposed during WIFE's February BOD meeting, because it reflects the true responsibility and meaning of a farm bill, which is currently for the 1.7% of family farmers left in this country and also for the 98.3% of consumers and the future of U.S. Agriculture.

MIGRANT WORKER FAMILY PICNIC AT PIONEER PARK

Kids of all ages participated in the Migrant Worker Family Picnic and sports clinics on Saturday, April 29, at Pioneer Park. The picnic and clinics were sponsored by McDonald's restaurants and the Unified Youth Sports Program.

Throughout the day's festivities and clinics, kids worked on improving their tennis backhand, basketball free throw shot and even learned how to saddle up on a horse. Clinics were also offered in baseball, soccer, volleyball and track and field. Lunch was served, courtesy of McDonald's.

The McDonald's Unified Youth Sports Program clinics began almost two years ago when tennis superstar and honorary chairperson, Chris Evert spoke to 700 students at Dwyer High School. Since then, 133 free sports clinics have been held in schools and parks throughout Palm Beach County.

"Sports provide valuable lessons for our children - team work, discipline and goal setting," said McDonald's Belle Glade owner Neil Ashton. "McDonald's owners in Palm Beach County believe that programs giving kids positive experiences are one of the best investments we can make in our community."

What Does It Smell Like?

The choice of a mouth rinse is getting more challenging because of a broadening market. Type of mouth rinse and individual needs should help determine which mouth rinse is right for you.

Different types of mouth rinses include:

Anti-microbial - These types often reduce different oral bacteria and leave a residual film which help fight gingivitis.

Fluoride - Mouth rinses that contain higher amounts of fluoride which is proven to reduce cavities and help with sensitive teeth.

Halitosis fighting or mouth rinses that cover bad breath with fresh flavorings.

Medicated mouth rinses are also available by prescription to help reduce chronic infection and inflammation.

Alcohol-free mouth rinses are also available, but the consumer should read the label to determine this.

Choosing your individual mouth rinse should be easier if you ask yourself: "Why am I selecting this mouth rinse?" To reduce plaque, fight bad breath, help reduce cavities or sensitivity?
